

TORONTO WORKSHOP ON PHONETICS, GENDER, AND SEXUAL ORIENTATION

NOVEMBER 18-19, 2005

University of Toronto, Dept. of Linguistics

The goal of this workshop is to extend our understanding of the role of gender and sexual orientation in spoken language. Six invited papers from different research traditions will present current research. The presenters will be prominent researchers from Canada, the US, and the UK. The workshop will result in the publication of a book which will set out new approaches to the sociophonetics of gender and sexual orientation, with important implications for the study of other kinds of sociolinguistic variation.

Register and find additional information online at:
www.chass.utoronto.ca/sociophonetics05/